The Faculty of Education

Background

The Faculty of Education is a member of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences (SHSS) at the University of Cambridge. It is one of the largest groups of educational researchers and teacher educators in the country. Currently, the Faculty has an academic staff of 21 Professors and over 30 Assistant and Associate Professors, and over 90 research and other teaching staff. There are approximately 70 professional services staff in support of teaching, research, outreach projects, finance, library, IT, audio-visual, buildings, HR, finance and communications.

The wide range of academic expertise covers all stages of formal education from the early years to the primary and secondary stages of schooling. We are therefore well placed to make major contributions both to the advancement of knowledge and practice about issues of contemporary significance and to the development of individuals and educational institutions.

The Faculty occupies modern, purpose-built accommodation on a single site at Hills Road. It offers excellent facilities to support teaching and research, including a library service offering one of the best education collections in the UK, an extensive Learning Resource Centre, teaching rooms, offices and social facilities.

Research and Teaching

Research at the Faculty

The policy of the Faculty (and of the University) is that all University Teaching Officers should be active researchers. This activity is regularly audited by the Research Excellence Framework (REF) the UK's system for assessing the quality of research in UK higher education institutions. In the most recent Research Excellence Framework, REF 2021, the Faculty of Education at the University of Cambridge, based on Power Ranking scores, placed 4th overall. The research environment score for the Faculty as part of REF2021 attained the maximum score of 100%, with the profile of "world leading" outputs and impact case studies was among the strongest in the UK.

Within the Faculty, a flexible approach to forming research teams is encouraged, with colleagues working together as appropriate, within the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, and across Departments and Schools at institutional level. Collaborations outside the University contribute 28% to our Research income.

Currently (May 2023), the Faculty is undertaking 31 externally-funded research projects with a combined value of £13 million. Major sponsors in the recent past have included the Economic and Social Research Council, government departments, and a range of charitable trusts as well as other educational organisations. Recent major successful bids include: "Learning outcomes and teacher effectiveness for children facing multiple disadvantages, including those with disabilities: India and Pakistan" (ESRC-DFID); "Exploring the malleability of executive control" (US Department of Education); and the PEDAL Centre on the role of play in young children's learning and development (LEGO Foundation).

Teaching and Learning at the Faculty

The Faculty has a portfolio of Masters and Research degrees and attracts outstanding students from both the UK and overseas. It is recognised by the ESRC as providing one of the highest quality educational research training programmes available anywhere in the UK and has been highly successful in obtaining studentships from the ESRC and other funding bodies. The Faculty also offers a PGCE programme which is consistently recognised by Ofsted as being of outstanding quality (grade 1). This involves a close working relationship with some 250 schools in the region, enabling about 300 students to prepare for careers in primary or secondary schools each year. In September 2015, the University of Cambridge opened a new primary school with strong links to the Faculty. The Faculty also offers a three year BA degree in Education studies combining study of core Education papers with three pathways: Education, Policy and International Development; Education, Psychology and Learning; and Education, English Drama and the Arts.

The University

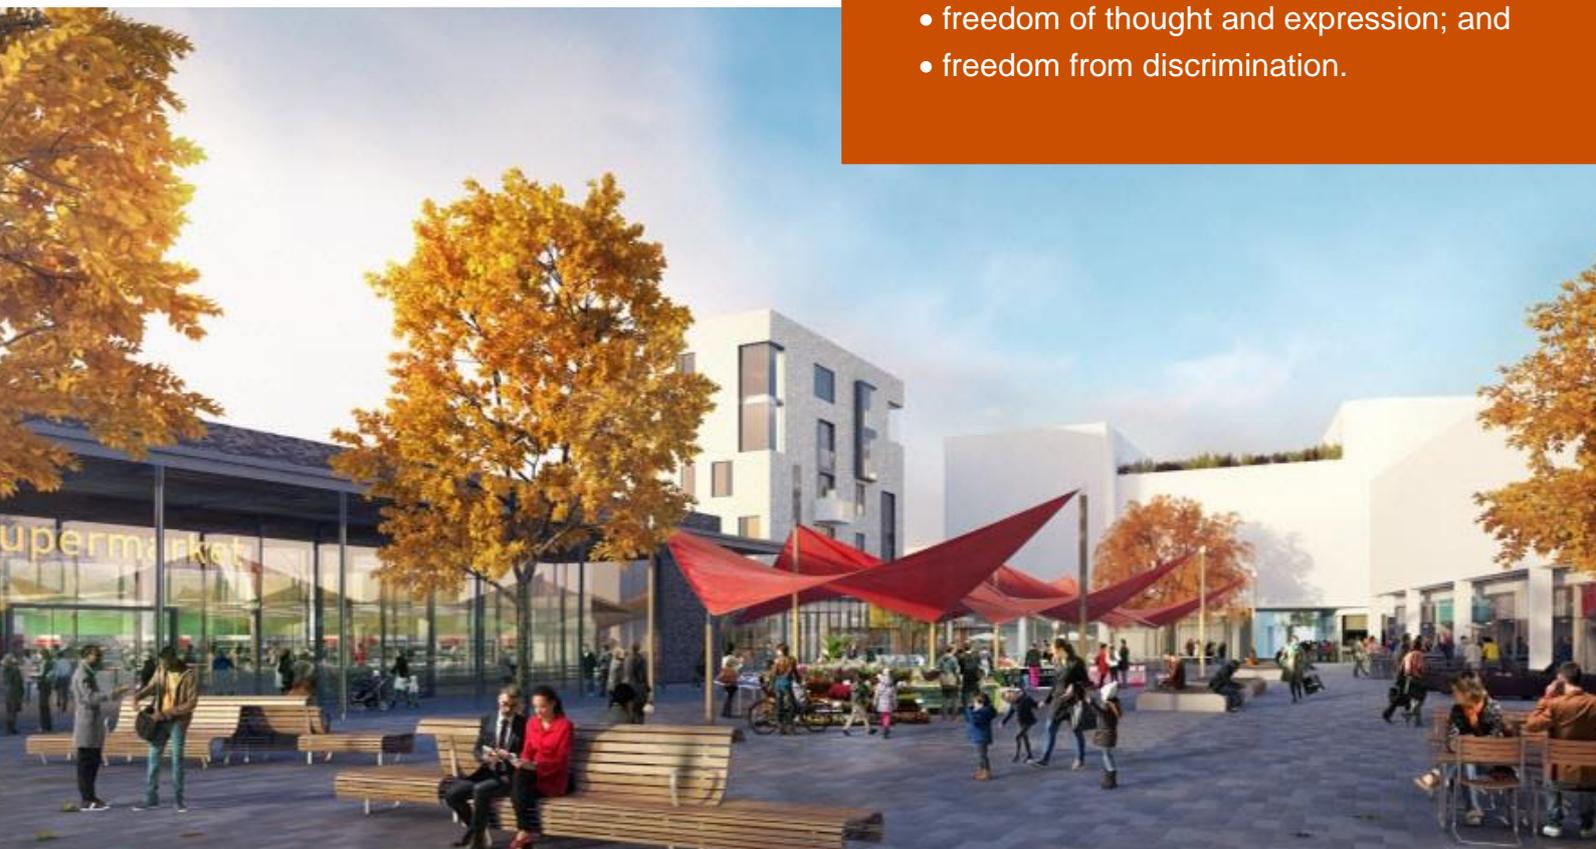

The University of Cambridge is one of the world's oldest and most successful universities. We are a renowned centre for research, education, and scholarship that makes a significant contribution to society. The University is consistently ranked amongst the top universities in the world. Our affiliates have won more Nobel Prizes than any other University.

Our sustained pursuit of academic excellence is built on a long history of world-leading teaching and research within a distinctive collegiate system. For eight centuries our ideas and innovations have shaped the world. Our principal goal is to remain one of the world's leading universities in an increasingly competitive global higher education sector. Today the University of Cambridge is at the centre of a cluster of over 4,300 businesses employing 58,000 people.

Our capital investment projects include academic and commercial growth at both the West Cambridge Innovation District, and the Biomedical Campus in the south of the city. Eddington, in North West Cambridge, is a mixed-use development including key worker housing for staff, a community centre and a new primary school, managed by the University. Through these projects, the University is deeply embedded in, and committed to serving, our local community. These are all conspicuous signs of a University that is not only adapting to new needs, but also anticipating the future.

Our mission is to contribute to society through the pursuit of education, learning, and research at the highest international levels of excellence. Our core values are:

- freedom of thought and expression; and
- freedom from discrimination.

About Us

The University is one of the world's leading academic centres. It comprises 150 faculties and departments, together with a central administration and other institutions. Our institutions, museums and collections are a world-class resource for researchers, students and members of the public representing one of the country's highest concentrations of internationally important collections.

The University has an annual income of £2 billion. Research income, won competitively from the UK Research Councils, the European Union (EU), major charities and industry, exceeds £500 million per annum and continues to grow.

The Colleges and the University remain committed to admitting the best students regardless of their background and to investing considerable resources both in widening access and financial support. The 31 Colleges are self-governing, separate legal entities which appoint their own staff. Many academic staff are invited to join a College as a Teaching Fellow, which provides a further social and intellectual dimension. The Colleges admit undergraduate students, provide student accommodation and pastoral support and deliver small group teaching for undergraduates.

The University awards degrees and its faculties and departments provide lectures and seminars for students and determine the syllabi for teaching.

Our instinct for seeking out excellence and setting up enduring and mutually beneficial collaborations has led us to establish strategic partnerships across the globe. Whether it is the successful Cambridge-Africa Programme involving universities in Ghana, Uganda and elsewhere on the African continent; or the close association with the government of India to pursue new research in crop science; or the creation, with Germany's Max Planck Institutes, of a Cambridge-based centre for the study of ethics, human economy and social change – international partnerships are now an inextricable part of the University's make-up.

“Cambridge graduates and researchers have made – and continue to make – a colossal contribution to human knowledge and the understanding of the world around us. Their work touches on the lives and livelihoods of everyone from patients diagnosed with life-threatening diseases, to residents of areas critically affected by climate change, to children growing up in conflict zones. It has a lasting impact on our society, our economy and our culture: the world is truly a better place thanks to their efforts.”

Stephen Toope, Vice Chancellor 2019
